

Student Internship in Pharmaceutical Market Research

impulze is a Swiss-based healthcare consulting company focused on market research (MR) and competitive intelligence (CI) for 'big pharma' industry, supporting medical and commercial teams of current blockbuster drug brands.

As an intern you will work with our market research analyst team. You will be able to utilize your proficient Excel and PowerPoint skills and languages (fluent English and basic German required, French an advantage).

Your background in life sciences and general interest in the pharmaceutical industry will allow you to put market analytics into context and build an understanding of pharmaceutical marketing.

Our current student internship opening is a temporary position of 3-6 months, starting in September 2019. To apply please e-mail your CV and a short motivation statement to recruiting@impulze.ch